Medication Abortion Care & Telehealth At A Glance

Abortion Care in Washington

- *Over 40% of Washington counties lack a brick & mortar abortion provider.*¹
- Abortion is an essential, time sensitive health care service. Medically unnecessary restrictions push medication abortion care, which is a non-invasive abortion option that is approved by FDA for use up to 10 weeks in pregnancy, out of reach for many.
- Being denied care can negatively impact the health and wellbeing of women and their families. Women who were denied a wanted abortion had four times greater odds of living below the Federal Poverty Level and were more likely to experience poorer health outcomes for years after the pregnancy.²
- People seeking abortion already face significant barriers to receiving quality care. Restrictions on abortion care and insurance coverage disproportionately impact people working to make ends meet, immigrants, young people, and women of color.³
- Washingtonians support access to abortion care. A majority [60%] of Washington voters say that abortion should be legal in all or most cases.⁴

Telehealth: A Tool for Expanding Access to Medication Abortion Care

- Telehealth is a tool that can expand abortion access. Research shows that telehealth reduces barriers to care and can help patients access care earlier in pregnancy.⁵
- Overall, telehealth for medication abortion care policy in Washington is expansive - services are covered at the same rate regardless of their delivery in-person or via telehealth.^{6,7}
 - Washington requires private insurers to reimburse for interactive video and audio-only visits at parity with in-person care, permits a broad range of telehealth modalities, does not restrict originating sites for telehealth encounters (i.e., patients can receive care via telehealth from their homes), and allows a broad range health care professionals to provide telehealth for medication abortion care.⁸

Policy Impacting Coverage of Telehealth for Medication Abortion Care in Washington:

- Out of State Provider Eligibility: It is unclear whether providers who are licensed in Washington, but physically located outside the state may provide telehealth to patients located within Washington at the time of care.
 - Impact: This may limit the number of providers available to provide care to Washington patients.
- Coverage for translation services: Providers participating in Washington Medicaid are required to provide translation services for Medicaid beneficiaries, including via telehealth.¹⁰ There are guidelines on how providers can bill for these services.¹¹ There is no requirement that private payors cover translation services.
 - Impact: Providers may be less likely to offer patients with translation needs access to telehealth services, forcing unnecessary in-person visits and inequitable access to care.
- No coverage for mailing medications: In Washington, there is no requirement for public or private payors to cover the cost of mailing medications.¹²
 - Impact: Without this coverage, providers and/or pharmacies may be less likely to offer patients the option of mailing medications, forcing unnecessary in-person visits and inequitable access to care.
